Security
Certificate Program

The security industry in America is a multi-billion dollar-a-year business that grows each year. In many cities, the number of security personnel is greater than the number of public police and law enforcement personnel. This certificate program provides the skills necessary to qualify for an entry-level position in the field of security. Pre-service and in-service law enforcement personnel will also find this program to be an acceptable way to document their knowledge in this specialty field.
